Pont des Arts is a famous bridge in Paris. Lots of artists go there to show their art. In 2008, people started to hang locks on the bridge railings.

Hanging locks on the bridge railings is a popular way for people who want to show love to their loved ones. However, in June 2014, the heavy locks caused some parts of the railings to fall. Luckily, no one was hurt in the accident, but the public started to worry about the bridge. Then, in 2015, the "love action" was stopped. The city took down a million locks and replaced the railings with glass.

From then on, it became difficult for people to put locks on the bridge.

It grossed ¥25.03 billion in Japan, but only took the second place at the box office in the history of anime until. Which anime took the first place? It was Spirited Away, one of the most successful movies in Japanese history. It held the record for 19 years until 2020.

In the movie, 10-year-old Chihiro moved with her parents to a new home in the countryside. After taking a wrong turn down a path, Chihiro and her parents discovered an amazing place with a stand full of food. To her surprise, Chihiro's parents began eating and then changed into pigs. In this supernatural area, Chihiro started to work in a bathhouse for spirits, waiting a reunion with her parents.

The anime has a story line which people can easily understand. Yet the director secretly gives some life lessons, to the people who watched this anime. One of the life lessons is never be motivated by your greed. In the travel, Chihiro was mainly motivated by the goal – saving her parents from the spell of the magical world – not by the greed, which made the spirits surprised and were willing to help.

Several years have passed after Spirited Away came out. It is not an anime only for adults, and it has still been very popular among people. If you are the one who has never watched it before, pick a time and enjoy it with your family or friends.

Manga Cafés

You may be no stranger to Internet cafés-cafés in which you pay to use the Internet and a computer-but have you heard of manga cafés? Like Internet cafés, manga cafés provide Internet services. They also provide comic books. You pay for the time you spend there, and you can read as many books as you want.

In Japan, manga cafés are very common and can be found easily in the city. In a manga café, you can get your own room with a key. The room is usually very small; the space is only enough for a chair, a small desk, and a person. Also, people who are at a manga café have to be quiet, so they won't disturb others.

Some people in Japan choose to live in a manga café because renting an apartment in a big city can be very expensive. Many manga cafés are open 24 hours, and they also have shower rooms, so it's not a bad choice to live in a manga café. Many people who live in a manga café have a home, but their home may be hours away from their workplace. Living in a manga café means they don't need to spend hours in traffic every day, and it's also cheaper.

Although it may not be the most comfortable place to live in, for those who like comic books, living in a manga café is like living in their dream.
